

I heard this morning that viacom had a conflict of interest about an interview with a Simon and Schuster author. They can't even grant a book interview because viacom owns Simon and Shuster. Relaxing ownership rules is just insane. Don't the people of our country deserve more than one view point? Relaxing the rules will destroy political debate in this country! Also, my chance at ownership will be flushed. I urge you NOT, to relax the broadcast ownership rules.
